

Carol M. Skey, Cello

Carol has an MA in piano performance from the University of Connecticut. She taught vocal and instrumental music in elementary schools through university, and as an Air Force wife had private piano studios in many states and several countries.

She continues to coach and accompany students and professionals in auditions and recitals. A cellist in the Tampa Bay Symphony for over 30 years, she has served as secretary on the board and as librarian. Her other volunteer commitments are with Ronald McDonald House and Sunken Gardens, where she started the docent program and serves as secretary on the Sunken Gardens Forever Foundation. Carol's hobbies are her family, gardening, reading and playing chamber music.
