

Meredith Kamprath, Violin

Meredith Yatsko Kamprath has been playing the violin since age 10 and has played with various community orchestras. A native of Virginia Beach, Virginia Meredith started playing violin through the public school system in elementary school. She attended the Governor's School for the Arts in Norfolk, VA to study violin during high school. In Virginia Beach she also studied under Julliard's faculty Ms. Dora Mullins. Meredith was graduated from Virginia Tech in 2002 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering, emphasizing in Structures. While at Virginia Tech Meredith played with the New River Valley Symphony Orchestra. Meredith has also played with other community orchestras such as the Virginia Beach Symphony Orchestra (currently named "Symphonicity"), The Richmond Philharmonic Orchestra, the South Shore Symphony Orchestra, and is currently playing her 4th season with the Tampa Bay Symphony Orchestra. Outside of music Meredith was a bridge designer for the Virginia Department of Transportation in Richmond, VA and a structural engineer for Hatch Mott MacDonald in Panama City, FL. Meredith is active in her community and has held multiple positions on the PTA. Meredith's family includes her husband Michael and daughters Mireilla and Meriel.
